opera companies, has accepted his opera of "Desiree," and will produce it at an early day in Philadel phia. The libretto of "Desiree" is by Ed ward M. Taber, of this city, and John M. Morton, of London, England. The high poputation of Mr. McCaull as a manager is sufficient guarantee that the opera will be produced to a grand scale. In the even of its repular success, of which there is no doubt. Washington will have the credit of having produced the first successful American comic opera. "Desiree" is a two-act opera, and contains a range of the time of the Cardinal Richellen. The plot is a charming story, well told, and abounds in funny situations and witty dialogue. The lyrics, which were written by Mr. Taber, are admirably constructed, perfect in versification, and full of point, and are considered by those who have heard them as fully equal to Gilbert's. The music is by far Mr. Sousa's best work. It is bright and sparking, both the solos and concerted pieces are melodious in the highest degree, and there is not a dull number in the opera. In short, it is likely the long-looked for American opera has at last been found.

The characters in "Desiree" are: Marquis de Lavarre, colonel of the king's musketeers, tenor; Count de Courville, lientenant of the king's musketeers, barytone: Pomaret, a Mr. Josoph Jacques is connected with the Vermont Central railros. In the capacity of master mason. He is well advanced in years, with a ruddy complexion and hale appearance, while his general bearing is such as to instantly impress one with his strict honor and integrity. Several years ago he became afficted with most distressing troubles, which prevented the prosecution of his duties. He was languid, and yet restless, while at times a dizziness would come over him which seemed almost blinding. His will power was strong, and he determined not to give way to the mysterious influence which seemed untion, and pronounced me in a very serious condition. Notwithstanding his care I grew worse, and the swelling of my feet gradually extended upward in my body. The top of my head pained me terribly; indeed, so badly that at times it seemed almost as if it would burst. My feet were painfully cold, and even when surrounded with hot flaunels and irons felt as if a strong wind were blowing on them. Next my right leg became paralyzed. This gave me no pain, but it was exceedingly annoying. About this time I began to spit blood most freely, although my lungs were in perfect condition, and I knew it did not come from them. My physicians were careful and untiring in their attentions, but unable to relieve my sufferings. My neighbors and friends thought I was dylug, and many called to see me, fully twenty-five on a single Sunday that I now recall. At last my agony seemed to culminate in the most intense, sharp pains I have ever known or heard of. If red hot knives, sharpened to the highest degree, had been run through my body constantly they could not have hurt me worse. I would spring up in bed, sometimes as much as three feet, cry out in my agony, and long for death. One night the misery was so intense that I arose and attempted to go into the next room, but was unable to lift my swellen feet above the little threshold that obstructed them. I fell back upon the bed and gasped in my agony, but folt unable even to breathe.

Rankin, now of Washington, was stationed here as pastor of the Congregational church. We all admired and respected him, and my wife remembered seeing somewhere that he had, spoken in the highest terms of a preparation which had cured some of his intimate friends. We determined to try this remedy, accord-where few if any ever recover. His recovery was due to Warner's Safe cure. Mr. John W. Hobart, general manager of the Vermont Central railroad, stated that Mr. Jacques was one of the best and most faithful of his employes; that his sickness had been an exceedingly severe one, and the company were not only glad to again have his services, but grateful to the remedy that had cured so valuable a mau. Mr. James M. Foss, assistant superintenden and master mechanic of the Vermont Centra railroad, is also able to confirm this.

I do not claim to be a great discoverer, but I do think I have found in the above a most remarkable case and knowing the unusual increase of Bright's disease feel that the pub-lic should have the benefit of it. It seems to me a remedy that can accomplish se much in the last stages ought to do even more for the first approach of this deceptive yet terrible trouble. F. B.

Dr. Pitzer's Lecture. The first of a series of theological lectures by this gentleman was given last evening at the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. The subect was, "The Bible: What Is It?" The ecturer dealt with the Bible as a fact—one lecturer dealt with the fible as a fact—one of the most tremendous in human history. How did we come by it? Can we trace it to its source? These questions the lecturer answered in an instructive and satisfactory manner. He traced it back to the time of the discovery of the art of printing, and demonstrated that during this period at least it could not be the result of a forgery. least it could not be the result of a forgery. He then traced it back through the two thousand and more manuscripts which are in existence to the third century, establishing with equal certainty the identity between our Bible and these manuscripts, and the impossibility of its being a forgery perpetrated during that period; and then he followed it back through translatious such as the latin the Syrice. The Lecture on Napoleon. Congregational church was crowded by a select audichie last night, in spite of the prevailing bad weather, the occasion being a lecture by Mr. J. A. McKnight. The subject of Mr. McKnight's lecture was the "Captivity of Napoleon Honaparte." Mr. McKnight, who is an excellent speaker, gave a clear and suc-cinet history of the capture and confinement of the great captain at St. Halena, illustrating the lecture with stereopticon views of the island. He paid high tribute to the genius of the great general, and was loudly ap-plauded. The lecturer was introduced by Commissioner Loring.
